

Taster Days

Higher Futures has built links between partner organisations, explored and enhanced progression routes and raised awareness of our work in the community sector across the region. We have developed new ways of encouraging students onto foundation level programmes of study, with successful taster sessions in the community.

This has raised awareness in the community of the programmes offered by The University of Sheffield, Sheffield Hallam University, and Northern College.

There have been successful taster days, with enhanced student numbers on foundation degree programmes and improved links between partner organisations, sharing ideas, good practice, and establishing modes of cooperation that will continue beyond the end of the Higher Futures project.

This work was carried out in order to stimulate interest in community work across the voluntary sector and to establish greater contact and cooperation between both Sheffield universities and Northern College in developing foundation level provision in this area.
